The goal of FGV Social is to contribute to Brazilian social and economic development by connecting applied research to the debate within society and to the implementation of public policies. It addresses the most important social themes of the Brazilian scene, it acts in favor of the diffusion of knowledge and for the inspiration of new inclusive practices.

We offer training and specialized advice for projects in different areas of activity, in partnership with entities at all three levels of government, companies and civil society organizations, located in Brazil and abroad. FGV Social identifies and seeks to promote new transformations in society through empirical research, especially based on large microdata sets, and through the design and evaluation of public policies.
