Numbers of professionals in the labor market grows for the first time since 2007

The accounts are complicated, but the part that really matters is that since 2007 the numbers of professionals in the Irish labor market took a breather and grew in the last months of 2011. The information and communication sectors were the main responsible for the good numbers, which are still insignificant (0.6%), but at least positive. IRISHTIMES

That same staff, if the subject is contentment and joy has to deinguém n. The research led by Getulio Vargas - FGV, interviewed 200 thousand people in 158 countries to display the same level of happiness. The survey also showed that women are happier than men and since 1999 it has also left men behind in educational item. And while Syria is the last position of research showing people not happy, Panama, Costa Rica, Colombia, Qatar, Switzerland and Denmark share space with Brazil in the class of the most satisfied! SHEET

Now is the law: Women earn the same as men

And since we are happier and more qualified to earn the same as men? The discussion is old and now seems to end. The Senate has just approved a draft law that guarantees the Brazilian earn wages equivalent to those received by men in similar positions. It seems obvious, but it is not what happens today. The fine for those who disobey the order is nothing short! BOL , NEWSPAPER TODAY
