China calls for ‘responsible’ US

Beijing urges more to boost confidence: Signs of slowing

By Simon Robinson

China has called on Washington to refrain from introducing any new sanctions against its companies and institutions.

The statement, which was made by the Chinese Foreign Ministry, follows an announcement by the US government that it plans to impose additional sanctions on Chinese telecommunications companies.

The Chinese government said it was concerned about the impact of the sanctions on China's economy and called for a pragmatic approach to resolve the dispute.

The US had earlier imposed sanctions on Chinese telecom giant Huawei, accusing it of violating international trade agreements.

China has also called for a resumption of talks between the two sides to address the issues.
